COMMENTS BY THE PRESIDENT AND CEO

"The fourth quarter gave ASSA ABLOY a strong finish to the year, with a rise in sales of a full 20% and a 22% improvement in operating income," says Johan Molin, President and CEO. "It is pleasing to see that growth in North America is continuing to accelerate, although the trend to weaker growth in the Emerging Markets is also continuing.

"Organic growth during the quarter was 3%, driven by a very strong performance in the USA. The Americas, Global Technologies and Entrance Systems divisions all showed strong growth, while EMEA maintained its stable but lower growth of 2%. All regions in Asia Pacific produced strong growth except China. The weak market in China, in combination with the enforcement of ASSA ABLOY's strict credit policy led to declining sales.

Once again I can report that sales of new products reached a new record and made up 32% of sales value. I note in particular that the Group has seen an extremely satisfactory advance in electromechanical products. Another area that made strong progress this year was e-government, where ASSA ABLOY received many new orders.

The pace of acquisitions intensified during the fourth quarter, with many acquisitions made in the Emerging Markets. Especially strategic for the Group are the digital lock manufacturer Digi Electronic Lock in China and three acquisitions in South America. A total of 20 companies were acquired during 2014, bringing added sales of around 5%.

Press Release

Operating income continued to improve in a very satisfactory manner this quarter, rising by a full 22%. Major contributory factors were good savings and efficiency gains in production and administration, strong contributions to income from the acquired companies, and also exchange-rate gains.

"My judgment is that the global economic trend is moving sideways, with America showing a positive trend while Europe and the Emerging Markets are stagnating. However, our strategy of expanding on the Emerging Markets remains unchanged, since in the long term they are expected to achieve very good economic growth. We are also continuing our investments in new products, especially in the growth area of electromechanics."

SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT

Increasing the efficiency of energy use in the Group's manufacturing plants and sales companies is a prioritized area for achieving a reduced environmental impact and lower costs. The improvement work is pursued locally in the Group's units, often with support from the kaizen method for identifying and prioritizing different activities. Several different activities that together produce significant savings are often identified in a single project.

As an example, ASSA ABLOY's factory in Bucharest can be cited, where energy-measuring instruments at different sites in the plant indicated where further improvements could be achieved. Maintenance and start-up procedures for the factory's surface-treatment plant were subsequently optimized and the start-up process was automated, which minimized idle time when the plant was running. Equipment was installed to balance the factory's energy consumption more efficiently. Light-fittings were changed to modern energy-efficient solutions and efforts were made to use daylight for illumination as much as possible. The fixtures used to hold the products during the painting process were also modified to hold more products at the same time. These changes produced a 9% improvement in the factory's energy efficiency.

ASSA ABLOY's Sustainability Report for 2014 will be available from 27 March 2015 on the company's website, www.assaabloy.com.
